

Can we speak our way out of society's most pressing challenges?

"...it is proposed that a form of free dialogue may well be one of the most effective ways of investigating the crisis which faces society, and indeed the whole of human nature and consciousness today" David Bohm

An invitation to talk

Our news reels have been filled this month with COP26 reports, leaving us overwhelmed with "will they, won't they" questions. Which can cause many to numb the overwhelm of emotions and respond to climate change and biodiversity loss with denial, apathy or silent acceptance.

How do we get beyond this?

When we feel compelled to make changes about things that cause us distress and pain, like climate change, how do we share this with and inspire others?

In part two of our Dialogue Series: Wild Nature, with Reboot the Future, we explore reciprocity and connection: delving into our relationship with Nature.

We offer strategies and examples of how to hold respectful dialogue - inspiring others to access what it is they love about our planet and what compels them to act and protect.

"Wild Nature"
Monday 29th November
4-6pm GMT

If we allow ourselves to fall in love again with the natural world and non-human beings – if we rekindle this connection – then our determination becomes unstoppable.

Add your voice to our conversation on Monday 29th November 2021 from 4-6pm (GMT). The follow-on conversation will be 13th December 2021 at the same time.

Please register here. We suggest a contribution of £20 per session - this includes a pack of resources, the Masterclass and a 'buddy' to connect and discuss further. Please note a contribution is appreciated, but not compulsory - you are welcome to attend, regardless.

Everyone is welcome
